UPPER COURT WILL PASS ON RATE RULING

To Be Most Important Test of Power of Interstate Commerce Commission

BILLIONS ARE INVOLVED

Basis of Valuation for Rate-making Important Factor in Controversy

Washington—Perhaps the most important test of the power of the Interstate Commerce commission since it was created by congress now will be placed before the supreme court of the United States to determine whether a proper basis for rate-making is the reproduction cost of the actual investment in a railroad. The commission has been ordered by a vote of six to four by the commission ultimately will involve many billions of dollars. The same issue is involved in about 200 cases involving many important roads but unquestionably the commission will await the outcome of the supreme court proceedings before going ahead with the other cases.

In a nut-shell, the Transportation act of 1920 permitted the railroads to earn up to 6 per cent in any one year and anything in excess of that sum was to be divided equally between the government and the railroads. A few of the roads have earned as much as 10 per cent and the government has been ordered to pay the balance. The commission has been ordered to pay the balance of the 6 per cent shall be calculated. In most instances, the roads have earned this year in the neighborhood of 5 per cent but they have not for some reason, realized that the 6 per cent would be reached by the end of the year.

The commission has been ordered to pay the balance of the 6 per cent shall be calculated. In most instances, the roads have earned this year in the neighborhood of 5 per cent but they
have not for some reason, realized that the 6 per cent would be reached by the end of the year.

The majority of the commission argued that the second amount of money actually invested prior to 1914 minus depreciation, should be considered and then any additions or extensions constructed since 1914 should be figured in at the current prices of those years and depreciated deducted again.
The four members of the commission who dissented took seriously the view expressed by the supreme court in recent cases, particularly the decision in the Indiana Public Utilities case, when spot reproduction value was used as a basis of rate making.
The majority pointed to other supreme court decisions over a long period of years in isolated cases. Strictly speaking, no general principle has been enunciated by the supreme court which the majority of the commission felt could be taken as a basis. So the commission's report obviously is an argument directed to the supreme court which will have to make the final decision.

The commission's findings are hardly a surprise because the basis of valuation which the commission announced has already been in use and the decision therefore, amounts to a confirmation. The roads throughout have been petitioning for the higher valuation due to the spot reproduction costs, but the commission has declined to assent.

The issue does not immediately affect the situation as there are as many points yet to be decided and meanwhile prices of materials have been jumping somewhat. The supreme court's decision will be awaited with interest by the railroad and financial world but it may be a year or more before the case is argued and decided.

JUGO-SLAVIAN QUEEN AT FATHER'S BEDSIDE

Bucharest, Rumania—(AP)—At 3 o'clock Saturday morning the condition of King Ferdinand was reported unchanged. The attending physicians were inclined to be optimistic despite the grave nature of the king's malady, and his weakened condition. Queen Marie of Jugo-Slavia, Ferdinand's favorite daughter, arrived in Bucharest last night. She was met at the station by her mother, Queen Marie, and immediately taken to her father's bedside.

PRISONERS WANT TO TALK IN STATE PRISON PROBE

Madison—(AP)—The legislative visiting committee's investigation into charges of mistreatment of prisoners at the state penitentiary and miscellaneous other allegations of mismanagement of the institution, will be continued next week. This was announced Saturday by Senator J. H. Carroll, chairman of the legislative committee, following receipt of a score of letters from inmates and inmates by Governor Zimmerman. The letters, turned over to the committee by the governor, expressed the desire on the part of the writers to testify before the committee.

WON AND LOST TWO FORTUNES, STARTS ON THIRD, BUT DIES

Manistee, Mich.—(AP)—Richard G.
Peters, pioneer lumberman, who set about at the age of 25 to build his third fortune, died here Friday, his dream unfulfilled.

Peters was once considered the wealthiest lumberman in Michigan, with vast holdings of virgin pine and hardwood timber lands mill properties, railroads and ship lines, but died practically penniless.

Starting at Manistee in 1867 with $5,000, saved while he was foreman of mills at Au Sable and Ludington, Mich., Peters in ten years built up a fortune estimated to have been more than $5,000,000.
His ventures in other fields grew beyond his management, however, and in 1897 he was forced to assign all his holdings. Therein six years he paid off more than $2,500,000 in debts and started again.

His second fortune was swept away about ten years ago and he has lived quietly here since that time. The only surviving relatives are his widow and several nephews and nieces. He was the oldest living member of the Knights of Pythias in Michigan.

MEYER AND SONS GET CONTRACT TO PUT UP SETTLING BASIN

Oshkosh Concern Is Awarded Water Commission Contract on Bid of $34,400

The contract to build a new settling basin at Appleton water plant was awarded to C. R. Meyer and Sons Construction company of Oshkosh for $34,400 at the semi-monthly meeting of the water commission at the city hall Friday afternoon. Five contractors submitted estimates.

The other four contractors all were from Appleton. Those who bid and their estimates are: Martin Boldt and Sons Construction company, $34,640;
Hoffman Construction company, $34,1-84; Appleton Construction company, $38,450; Lillie Construction company, $57,215.

Work is to be started on the settling basin at once and it is to be completed within 90 days.

The commission decided to improve Reservoir park at the corner of S.
Walnut-st and W. Prospect-ave by planting shrubbery and flowers. The work is to be done under the direction of Commissioner John Lappen and Superintendent A. J. Hall, who were given power to act.

FORMER OPERA SINGER LOSES $250,000 SUIT

New York—(AP)—Mme. Jolannah Gaski Tauscher, former soprano of the Metropolitan Opera Co., has lost a $250,000 libel suit she brought against the New York Herald-Tribune because of an article appearing in that paper in 1922, which, she contended, made it appear she sang a song lauding the sinking of the Lusitania.
The supreme court jury which had been hearing the case five days returned the verdict in 15 minutes.

NATIONAL ADJUTANT OF G. A. R. TAKEN BY DEATH

Madison—(AP)—Charles Kayser, 81 national adjutant general of the G.
A. R. since October, 1926, died at his home here Friday afternoon. General Kayser, who recently wrote an obituary of himself, was a Civil war veteran.

Texan Rangers Bring Law To Pan Handle Oil District

Borger, Texas—(AP)—Texas rangers Saturday brought "law" to this Pan Handle oil boom district in general and to Stunnett, 15 miles west of here, in particular, where a mob was reported bent on securing three suspects held in connection with the slaying of two deputy sheriffs.

Borger, in a wave of crime and a series of violent deaths since the recent discovery of oil, was ordered under ranger rule Friday night following the shooting of Deputies Pat Kenyon and A. L. Terry, near Stunnett, Friday. The officers were killed before they could return the fire of occupants of an automobile they attempted to stop in their search for five bandits who robbed a bank at Pampa, Texas, Thursday of more than $25,000.

Shortly after the bodies of the deputies were found in the road near the car, Hugh Walker and Ed Bailey were arrested and placed in jail at Stunnett of Hutchinson-co. "Whitey" Walker, brother of Hugh, also was arrested when he was identified as one of the bank bandits. All were found at their homes here. A pistol, left by the slayers, led to the arrest of Hugh Walker and Bailey.

With three men in custody, officers started a search for Ray Terrell and Matthew Kimes, notorious outlaws, labeled as leaders in the Pampa robbery.

The slaying brought an appeal from Borger residents to Governor Dan Moody for rangers to assist local authorities in cleaning up the town.
Governor Moody ordered ten of the cowboy peace officers here to remain until the "lawless unconditionally surrenders."

INSURGENT LEADER WILL QUIT SENATE

La Follette May Succeed Norris When Nebraskan Retires in 1931

Washington—(AP)—If Senator Norris, Republican, Nebraska, carries out his intention of retiring from the senate at the close of his term in 1931, the independent group in the senate will be compelled to find another leader as he has been regarded as the successor of the late Senator La Follette of Wisconsin.

Although the group does not officially recognize any leader and its members are listed formally as either Republicans or Democrats, Senator Norris has been regarded as the guiding hand in its policies. The group's membership is principally from western states.

When the Nebraska senator steps out, the group may turn to the present Senator La Follette, son of the late fighting Wisconsin senator who for years held the helm of the independents. It is pointed out, however, that since it will be several years before Senator Norris would retire, no serious consideration will be given immediately to filling his position.

'APRIL FOOL'S DAY JOKE' IS BODY OF BADGER MAN

Oshkosh—(AP)—The lifeless body of John Jennings, 66, an old resident of Pickett, was found hanging to a tree in the Pickett cemetery near here Friday afternoon. He had been missing from his home since Thursday night. Friends stated he had been ill and depressed mentally for the last few years, and had threatened at various times to take his own life. A little girl walking by the cemetery observed the body and thought it an April Fool's day joke. She told friends somebody had "hanged a scarecrow to a tree in the cemetery," but investigation proved it to be the body of Jennings.

FIVE MINE OPERATORS SIGN TO PAY 1917 SCALE

Bellaire, Ohio—(AP)—Five coal mining companies employing 299 men Saturday signed separate agreements with union miners to pay the Jacksonville scale of wages in effect since 1917. Other companies are expected to sign later in the day.

OLD DUBUQUE DAILIES WILL BE CONSOLIDATED

Dubuque, Ia.—(AP)—Consolidation of the Dubuque Telegraph-Herald and Dubuque Times-Journal, two of Iowa's oldest newspapers founded in 1826 and 1858, respectively, will be announced in the first issue of the merged paper Sunday. Names of both papers will be retained.

Morning and evening editions will be issued, the morning issue replacing the predated editions which both papers have published the last four years.

KIDNAPED MAN IS KILLED BY MEXICAN GANG

Abductors Slay American Citizen on Report of Approaching Troops

BULLETIN

Washington, D. C.—(AP)—Instructions to Ambassador Sheffield to make urgent representations to the Mexican government over the slaying by bandits of Edgar M. Wilkins, an American mining engineer, were dispatched to Mexico City by the state department Saturday on receipt of official advice that Wilkins body had been found.

Mexico City—(AP)—Edgar M. Wilkins, American kidnapper near Guadalajara Sunday, was killed by his cap-tors 24 hours later, it is learned.
The slayers made no attempt to hide their crime and the body was found lying on El Coll hill, near Santa Ann Acatlan. Discovery was made by an employee of Chapala Electric Co., of which Wilkins was chief engineer.

Wilkins, a former resident of Savannah, Ga., was captured Sunday while motocycling with his 10-year-old son near Guadalajara. The kidnappers, headed by Severiano Canales, demanded $20,000 ransom, and the son was sent to Guadalajara to obtain the money.

When news of the kidnapping reached Mexico City the American embassy made urgent representation to the Mexican foreign office.

SEVERAL BANDITS KILLED

The kidnappers, hearing federal troops were seeking them and apparently convinced that ransom would not be forthcoming, killed their captive.
Superintendent Spencer reiterated
the remarks of the board president to
Mr. Wade in the conference, he said
Saturday morning. "I told Mr. Wade
that he was taking the wrong attitude
as principal of the school when he told his students in assembly, while endeavoring to avert the strike, that
the superintendent and the board desired a strike and these people are egging you on and for that reason

MINORITY SHAREHOLDERS TO OPPOSE RAIL MERGER

Washington—(AP)—In its first order touching the proposed Chesapeake and Ohio consolidation with the Erie and Pere Marquette railroads, which has been advanced by the Van Swearingen interests, the Interstate Commerce Commission Saturday refused to deny minority stockholders the right to fight the merger.

ALLEGED TWO FINANCIERS USED MAILS TO DEFRAUD

Glas removed to St. Paul for trial on charges of violating the federal farm loan act and using the mails to defraud.

MAN WHO FLED CONVICT CAMP IS RECAPTURED

Rhineland—(AP)—Conrad Glockner, who escaped from the convict camp near Tomahawk lake last September, was captured near McNaughton Thursday night by Sheriff Lloyd Brooker and District Attorney E. E.
Glockner. He was taken along the road when the officers overtook him.
Glockner, who is a resident of Min-necqua, was sentenced in circuit court here in March, 1926, to Waupun for a term of 15 months to three years, when convicted of arson and larceny.

EX-VICE PRESIDENT OF BADGER UNIVERSITY DIES

Madison—(AP)—John E. Parkinson, vice president emeritus of the University of Wisconsin, died at his home Saturday. Dr. Parkinson, who was 92 years old, was a prominent identifi-fied with university affairs for more than 60 years, having served in various capacities from professor to vice president. He would have been 93 years old April 11.

COMMITTEE APPROVES REPAIRS ON STREETS

A recommendation that several streets be repaired and sidewalks constructed was adopted at a meeting of the street and bridges committee at the city hall Friday afternoon, according to Alderman Charles Fosc, chairman. The committee also approved several applications for sewers and the council will act on the recommendations when they are presented at the next council meeting.

Superior Citizens Meet To Unravel School Tangle

Superior—(AP)—While preparations were going ahead for a meeting at 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon of a committee of 21 citizens, who will endeavor to straighten out the tangle of events surrounding the strike of 900 Central high school seniors Friday, in protest to the board of education's dismissal of their teacher, Miss Lulu J. Dickinson, speculation was rife in educational circles regarding the split between the school superintendent, the principal of the high school and the president of the board.

"Mr. Ekblad told me at my office Friday afternoon," Principal Wade said Saturday, "that 'if you are in sympathy with this strike, the sooner you resign the better.' I replied that I will not resign, that I am not in sympathy with the strike and have done all in my power to prevent it.
Thereupon Rev. Ekblad said 'if you had done the right thing at the start, the strike would not have taken place.'"

Conflicting statements came from the three principals, who gathered in the office of Mr. Wade Friday, while hundreds of students milled about the school grounds and in corridors.
Indignation ran high among the student body as the board president and Paul R. Spencer, school superintendent, were announced to be in conference with the principal.

PREACHER DENIES STATEMENT

Informed of Mr. Wade's version of the conference the Rev. Ekblad said,
"the high school principal is mistaken in his report of what transpired and what was said between us."
"Mr. Wade told me that if the board had done the right thing this strike would have been averted. He further indicated that the board's position was wrong. I answered him saying
'if you feel that way about it you might just as well hand in your resignation, the sooner the better.'"

the remarks of the board president to
Mr. Wade in the conference, he said
Saturday morning. "I told Mr. Wade
that he was taking the wrong attitude
told his students in assembly, while
endeavoring to avert the strike, that
the superintendent and the board desired a strike and these people are

NEW LAW PERMITS LONGER WORKING HOURS FOR WOMEN

Assembly's Principal Contribution of Week Was Law
Labeling State Cars

Madison—(AP)—Sessions punctuated infrequently with debate characterized a quiet week in Wisconsin's legislature.

Numerous bills were approved by both branches of the legislature although the majority were of a minor nature. High spots of debate in the two houses occurred when the senate argued at length over the selection of the official state paper, proponents and opponents of The Capital Times and The Wisconsin State Journal engaging in verbal tilts, while the assembly devoted hours to discussing the alum baking powder bill.

EXTEND WORKING HOURS

The senate also ordered engross-ment of the "women's labor bill" which would permit the employment of women four hours longer in rush communities, a move to meet the rush of Saturday night trade.

Similar action was taken by the assembly in favor of compelling the labeling of state-owned automobiles.
Instances of the use of such automobiles for fishing and hunting trips were cited by sponsors of the bill.
Preliminary to the opening of sessions in both houses, the legislative visiting committee completed an investigation at the state penitentiary where charges of cruelty to prisoners had been made by a discharged prison-guard. Officials at Waupun were practically cleared of the charges by the committee when adjournment time for the hearing was reached.

A report of the condition of the state fund was made before the lower house in answer to a resolution asking such statement. The report was prepared by Sol Levitan, state treasurer, and Theodore Dammann, secretary of state.

WEEK'S VACATION FOR SCHOOLS ENDS MONDAY

SHERIFF ASKS SMALL TO HOLD TROOPS READY

Thompson Partisan Charges
Friends of Mayor Dever
Incite Race Hatred

POLICE ARMY ON GUARD

Force of 7,000 Men Will Be on Duty Tuesday, Police Chief Declares

Chicago—(AP)—Chicago's mayoralty campaign, which so far has largely been confined to the calling of names, entered a more serious phase Saturday when Sheriff Charles E. Graydon called upon Governor Small to hold himself in readiness for an appeal for troops. The sheriff, a partisan of William Hale Thompson, Republican candidate, charged that friends of Mayor Dever had been trying to incite a race riot here to aid the Dever campaign. He also said he had evidence that Michael L. Igoe, minority house leader, was responsible for circulation of a spurious letter, purporting to have been issued by Mr.
Thompson, and inviting about 10,000 Negroes to meet him at a loop hotel wearing Thompson badges.

CALL LARGE POLICE FORCE

Attorney General Oscar E. Carlstrom, following conference with the sheriff and Robert E. Crowe, state's attorney, the latter one of the principal Thompson backers, supplemented the Graydon message with a telegram to the governor making similar charges and announcing the situation would be presented to the grand jury next week.

"Whether or not troops are called Chicago next Tuesday probably will use armed men on a scale never before known at a municipal election.
More than 7,000 policemen will be on duty. Chief of Police Nelson, who on March 5 killed the husband and son of Mrs.
Henderson, the police program calls for 250 squads in automobiles, 45 machine guns, and a policeman in each police place armed with a rifle, or pistol.

FORMER SENATOR SMITH, EARLY WILSON AIDE, DIES

Newark, N. J.—(AP)—James Smith, Jr., former United States senator who helped give Woodrow Wilson his political start and later became Mr. Wilson's political enemy, died Friday night, aged 76.

Beginning work as a grocery clerk,
he became president of a bank, owner of two newspapers and a member of the United States senate and helped engineer the nomination of Woodrow Wilson as governor of New Jersey, which eventually led to the presidency.

WIDOW SUES PARENTS OF HER HUSBAND'S SLAYER

Madison—(AP)—Mrs. Ida Henderson, Negress, Saturday filed suit for an indeterminate amount against Charles Nelson and Mrs. Virginia Nelson, parents of Harvey Nelson, who on March 5 killed the husband and son of Mrs.
Henderson. Nelson committed suicide after he was hunted by a posse for several hours after the killings.

In the preliminary affidavit Mrs.
Henderson charged that Nelson was insane at the time of the crime and was supposed to be under control of his parents. The affidavit after being accepted in court ordered the parents to appear before Superior Judge S. B. Schein Wednesday afternoon.

12,000 AMERICAN MISSIONARIES IN CHINESE TROUBLE

Mission Workers Make Up Biggest Class of Americans Living in China

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
Washington—The 12,000 or more American citizens resident in China are divided about as follows in respect to sex and interest, according to consular registration figures:

	Men	Women	Children
Missionaries	1500	2500	2100
Business	1200	700	400
Professional	200	150	150
U. S. government service	100	100	50
Chinese government service	100	75	50
American born Chinese	100	250	600

Unregistered at consulates probably about 1000. The largest American population, of course, is at Shanghai, with 4000. More than half the Americans engaged in mercantile pursuits in China are located there and the next largest quota of them is found in the Peking-Tientsin district, with 400. Hankow is third in the respect and Hongkong fourth. The greatest number of American professional men is found at Peking, where are the Rockefeller Foundation's medical school and hospital.

MANY WOMEN THERE
The American population of the country has quadrupled during the last 20 years and it is interesting to note that there are 4000 women, some 1600 of whom are unmarried.

There are 617 American firms in China, according to Julian Arnold, Department of Commerce attaché at Shanghai, who has compiled the figures, and 202 are in Shanghai.

All these Americans and their firms are under the jurisdiction of courts created by extraterritoriality of which much has already been heard, and much more is likely to be heard before the Chinese get through. Chinese law is applied in cases of Chinese defendants and generally for defendants of nationalities not enjoying extraterritoriality.

Defendants enjoying extraterritorial rights come under laws of their own countries. The plaintiff's nationality is always immaterial in determining the law. Trials are held in the court of the district magistrate having jurisdiction over the defendant.

In some ports, where there are numerous foreign claims against Chinese, special courts have been created, the best known of which is the International Mixed Court at Shanghai, which hears the claims of American citizens against Chinese in that district.

There is no trial by jury in our Chinese judicial system. There is a consular court for each of the eighteen American consular districts in China, with a consular officer as judge. Their jurisdiction is limited in criminal cases in which the penalty does not exceed 99 days in jail or a $100 fine and to civil cases involving no more than $500.

More important cases, as well as appeals from consular courts, go to the United States court for China, which has headquarters in Shanghai, and also sits in Hankow, Tientsin and Canton cases. Appeal can be taken from this court to the U. S. circuit court of appeals at San Francisco.

The British system of extraterritorial courts is much similar to our own and the ultimate appeal winds up at privy council in London.

WORK THROUGH CONSULS

American claims against Chinese are taken up through the American consulates, whose officials communicate with the Chinese authorities and often settle the cases without trial.

Our extraterritoriality treaty, with China, drafted by Caleb Cushing and signed in 1854, provides that "citizens of the United States who may commit any crime in China shall be subject to the trial and punished only by the consul, or other public functionary of the United States thereto authorized according to the laws of the United States."

In all extraterritorial courts, the test of jurisdiction is the nationality of the defendant.

VEGETABLE PRICES INCREASE SLIGHTLY

Heavier Demand for Fresh Product Boosts Cost, Dealers Report

Vegetables on the Appleton market have increased slightly in price during the last week due to the slight rise on the Chicago market, according to local fruit and vegetable dealers. The increased price is caused by the heavier demand for fresh vegetables, dealers say. This is the season when the vegetable demand always increases.

New potatoes, at two pounds for 25 cents, probably feature the market. They are from Florida. The price probably will drop soon as the potato crop into other southern states soon will be on the market. Old potatoes sell at from $1.25 to $1.50 a bushel and sweet potatoes at two pounds for 25 cents.

Parasnis sell at three pounds for 25 cents and asparagus at 25 cents a bunch. Leaf lettuce sells at 10 cents a bunch and head lettuce at from 6 to 8 cents a pound and red cabbage at from 10 to 13 cents. Turnips retail at 10 cents; green onions, 10 cents; radishes, 10 cents; green beans, 35 cents; string beans, 35 cents; green peas, 35 cents; peppers, 10 cents; cucumbers, 35 cents; carrots, 10 cents; spinach, 20 cents.

Fresh horse radish sells at 30 cents a pound and water cress at from 15 to 25 cents. New cauliflower retails at from 25 to 30 cents. It is of extra fine quality.

Strawberries sell at 35 cents a box and coconuts at from 15 to 20 cents apiece. Grape fruit retails at from 75 cents to $1.50 a dozen and oranges from 25 cents to $1 per dozen.

Knowledge And Skill Is Required To Catch Trout

BY R. A. CLAFLIN

The opening of the trout season is but a few weeks off. We are being frequently asked where good trout fishing can be had. That is somewhat of a difficult question to answer for the reason that the quality of success to be had depends largely upon the ability or skill of the angler. Formerly it was not trick for the veteran angler to bring back a creel full of these fine fish. Conditions have changed, however. Nowadays it requires a knowledge of where to go, and skill on the part of the angler.

But the trout are still with us. We admit they are not as plentiful as they once were, nevertheless there are yet enough of them to satisfy any fisherman's desire for the rod who possesses the requisite knowledge of conditions and the right degree of skill when he is on the stream.

As a rule the trout taken nowadays run smaller than they did some years back. By that we mean that fewer large fish are taken than were in the days of plenty. Then we considered our catch hardly worth mentioning unless they measured twelve inches or better. A trout of fourteen inches will weigh one pound. Fish of this size were common in the days when we regularly fished the Rat River near Blackwell. That stream is still good, but it must be fished very early in the season to insure fish of good size.

It was my good fortune to be one of the first "city" fishermen to visit this stream. In fact our party pioneered this water and pointed out the way for those who followed. We took many fine fish from the rapids which begin about two miles from Blackwell, and continue in stretches well down to where the stream enters the Peshigo.

On one occasion three of us landed 21 trout measuring from 14 inches up to the largest one I caught weighed three pounds and four ounces. These fish were all speckled trout. Fontinalis, with the exception of one that being a Rainbow. That is a peculiarity of the Rat River. In all my years of fishing that stream, that was the only Rainbow I ever took from its waters.

We frequently hear the remark that, this or that stream is all fished out, and yet it is possible for an angler to possess of sufficient skill to take fish therefrom, and do it regularly.

On the Rat River, as on many other streams which require early fishing, worms or minnows bring best results. Night crawlers are better than the common angle worm, and should be used on a number 4 or 5 hook. If minnows are used they should be accompanied by a small spinner.

SOFTBALL LEAGUES READY FOR SUMMER

Herbert Voecks Elected President of Summer Sports Organization

Representatives of nine Appleton industries and organizations started plans for one or two softball leagues for this summer at a meeting Thursday evening at the Y. M. C. A. Organizations represented were Pettibone-Peabody Co., August Brandt Co., Co. D of the national guard, Interlake Pulp and Paper Co., Appleton Post-Crescent, American Legion, Lions club, Badger Printing Co. and the Bankers. A tenth team, the Wisconsin Traction, Light, Heat and Power Co., was added by telephone, although its representatives could not be present.

A softball association was formed. Herbert Voecks of the Bankers was elected president and John Wissman of the Bankers, secretary-treasurer. A rules and by-laws committee was appointed, consisting of Philip Jacobson, Badger Printing Co.; Edward Starnard, Post-Crescent; and Leslie Smith, American Legion. The committee will report at the next meeting on Thursday evening.

A financial report of the 1926 Twilight league was made by Earl McCourt, secretary-treasurer of the league at that time and manager of the Interlake team. It was decided to use the surplus from last year to start the 1927 league. Of the ten organizations represented seven or eight probably will be ready to enter

27 LIGHTS WILL ILLUMINATE ALL OF S. CHERRY-ST

Eight Lights Will Be Left Burning Throughout Entire Night

Twenty-seven ornamental lights, eight of which will burn all night, are included in plans for the proposed lighting system of S. Cherry-st boulevard. The plans were approved by the council at its last meeting and it is probable that advertising for bids for the works will be discussed at the next meeting. The system will cost between $5,000 and $6,000.

The lights will be situated about 125 feet apart except at corners where they will be placed closer. Five lights will be placed on the south end of the boulevard in Winnebago-co. The council probably will appoint a committee to confer with the Winnebago-co officials relative to having the county turn over the care of their section of the boulevard to the city.

Grass will be planted and the entire boulevard will be kept in repair if the county deels the land to Appleton. In this manner the entire boulevard can be improved on a uniform basis. All night lights will be located at the south end of the boulevard, at the crossing of Cherry-st and W. Seymour-st, and the junction of the street with the bridge.

INSTALL GAS PUMPS AT FILLING STATION

Five visible gasoline pumps are being installed at the Collip-Vogel Filling station and Tire shop at 227 W. College-ave. Joseph Hodgins, city sealer of weights and measures, is inspecting the pumps before they are placed in service.

Teams though more are expected. The association still is open to more teams and managers are urged to get their entries in. The teams which had mer at Thursday's meeting will be given the first chances of joining the league, however.

SOME gardeners will risk a whole summer's work on seeds that they know nothing about, except that "they were cheaper." Knowledge gained through disappointment is costly.

Ferry's purebred Seeds at ten cents per packet are the cheapest seeds you can buy and your harvest will prove their economy. For Ferry's Seeds have a national reputation for producing an abundance of flowers and vegetables that are ideal in size, shape and color.

The purebred quality of Ferry's Seeds is determined at our 850-acre proving grounds. More extensive seed tests are made there than anywhere else in the United States. For generations we have been carrying on this exacting work to protect everyone who buys Ferry's purebred Seeds.

Don't let a handful of nickels saved by buying ordinary seeds prevent you from having a garden such as only Ferry's purebred Seeds can produce. Make your selections now, "at the store around the corner," from the familiar Ferry Box. Ferry's Seeds are clean and not a packet is held over from last season. ## FORMER RESIDENT SOUGHT FOR THEFT

Sheriffs Get Warrants for George Beckman, Wanted for Embezzlement, Deser-tion

Sheriffs of Outagamie and Marathon counties have warrants for the arrest of George Beckman, alias Nelson, former Appleton man, for embezzlement, theft and deserting his wife and children.

Beckman, a fruit salesman, is alleged to have left his home at Wausau about July 24, 1926, with a single girl named Mamie Clifford, who clerked in a store there. The couple is said to have made his departure in a car stolen from his employers, the Wisconsin Distributing Co. He also is charged with embezzling about $634 from his employers.

Beckman is 34 years old, 5 feet 7 inches tall, and about 160 pounds in weight. He has a fair complexion, light brown hair, worn short and in pompadour style, very coarse hair, light colored eyebrows which are coarse and heavy.

A deep wrinkle is noticeable on the right side of his face and he squints his eyes when he talks. He is bow legged, has large ankle bones, is quiet and reserved of manner, and gambles, drinks and smokes cigarettes heavily. He is a poor penman, and is an habitual hanger on in pool rooms.

His companion Miss Clifford, is 23, 5 feet 7 inches tall, and about 175 pounds in weight. She has a fair complexion, medium dark hair, and walks with a slight limp in her right leg.

The car in which he left Wausau is a 1926 Ford coupe, motor number 15074489.

Former Blind Girl Turns To Deep Religious Study

Chippewa Falls.—(P)—Once the subject of worldwide interest because of the uncanny powers attributed to her, Willetta Huggins has turned to religious study as the vocation of her adult years.

The former student of the Wisconsin state school for the blind whose apparent ability to "see" through her sense of smell and "hear" through her sense of touch, baffled the scientific world which was frankly skeptical, is now living at Brooklyn, Mass. Miss Huggins, 22, with her eyesight and hearing restored, is attending the Christian Science Mother church in Boston and studying for her life work as a practitioner.

Guiding her career is Miss Lillian Miller, a practitioner, who became interested in Willetta where she was a student at the school for the blind. In her choice of a vocation may be seen the influence of her contact with the church, and her belief, expressed at the time she recovered her sight and hearing, that it was "a gift of God." It was while with Miss Miller, that she first declared she found herself able to see and hear, in December, 1923.

Doubted by the medical profession and described as a "fake" by Prof. Joseph Jastrow, University of Wisconsin psychologist after a cursory examination, the story of Willetta's achievements as a student at the state school for the blind, aroused interest in scientific circles throughout the world.

An orphan and partially blind from birth, Willetta was found living with her grandmother at Chippewa Falls in 1915 and brought to the state school. She was then 10 years old. Her condition gradually grew worse, and in 1920 she was adjudged blind and deaf by all the tests generally used to determine whether sight and hearing had vanished.

Morose and despondent over the prospect of a life in darkness, the girl became a problem, according to the statements of J. T. Hooper, superintendent of the school. The following year a great change was wrought in her mental condition when it was found that she could hear, through placing her hand on the larynx of the person who was speaking.

Later experiments indicated she obtained the same result by placing her hand on a person's chest, and she finally was given an acoustiphone, from which she felt the vibrations from people's voices.

Watched closely by Superintendent Hooper and attaches of the school, the girl appeared to possess other powers which baffled those accustomed to dealing with the blind and deaf. She appeared to understand persons, through vibrations carried from the head of the speaker through a wooden pole which she grasped at the other end.

As the case developed, Willetta showed herself possessed of both an extraordinary sense of smell as well as touch. She maintained she could tell the color of yarn and other materials by smelling, and did it with eyes blindfolded, telling through feeling, the denomination of paper money, calling off the headlines of newspapers and making a high average in describing the color of yarn.

She appeared before the Chicago Medical society, where she was subjected to many tests, and was examined by several psychologists and physicians. Contrary to all medical knowledge, the girl's case met with skepticism although arousing wide interest.

She refused many offers to go on the state but accepted none. Then she returned from a Christmas vacation at Chippewa Falls to startle the school officials with the statement she could hear and see. Examination confirmed her statements. Physicians attributed the recovery of her sight and hearing to improved physical condition, while Prof. Jastrow cited it in support of his statement that she had never been totally without her sight and hearing.

Leaving the school for the blind, she attended high school at Chippewa Falls for a year. Her ill health compelled her withdrawal, and she was

ASK AUTOMOBILE OWNERS TO HELP ASSESS MACHINES

City Assessor Mails Questionnaires to All Motorists in Appleton

Automobile owners again will be asked to help assess their cars this year by filling out questionnaires to be taken by Miss Miller to St. Paul and then to Eau Claire, where they lived until coming to Brookline.

mally by George Peotter, city assessor, about May 1.

"It is very necessary that these cards be filled out correctly and returned to this office as soon as possible so that the tax rolls may be completed," Mr. Peotter said. "It also is essential that the owner of the car fill out the cards so that all information is supplied correctly. It is difficult to make the annual assessments, and the tax payers can give material assistance by supplying the information requested."

In Milwaukee 25 per cent of all automobiles escape taxation each year because the records are not complete. In Appleton, however, only 2 per cent are missed. A more thorough check is available here because the city is smaller.

In filling out the cards the owner must give the make of car, number of cylinders, number of passengers it carries, the style and when it was purchased. Tax payers are also asked to report motor boats and motorcycles on these cards.

They are stamped and addressed to the city assessors to lessen the bother for the tax payer as much as possible and all that is necessary is that the cards be completely filled out and returned as soon as possible.

THE CHINESE QUESTION

The thing that seems to be certain about China is that white political and military domination is at an end. The sun has set on foreign aggrandizement in the Orient. A generation and a half ago it looked as though the partition of China was inevitable. The war between Japan and Russia seemed to give it impetus. It, however, set Japan up in the place of Russia as one of the exploiters, and the alliance between Japan and Great Britain appeared to be another link in the chain that fettered China. Today the dreams that these developments seemed destined to realize are shattered. Chinese nationalism has finally asserted itself and is on the high road to supremacy. The foreigner may therefore as well pack up his claims and rights that would impair Chinese sovereignty and independence, and get out. That is what Great Britain along with other nations with holdings there will have to do.

The status of the United States is different, and yet it is faced by a grave question of international policy. We have no spheres of influence in China, no ports, no concessions, no territorial holdings. Our activities there are entirely educational and commercial. The uncertainties of the new Chinese republic are great. Hostility to foreigners is pronounced. It may die down, but it may vent itself on foreign enterprises at any time in the future. Shall the United States cultivate commercial relations with China, or shall it not? If it does, it must carry with it the right and the obligation to protect commercial expansion. This is precisely the question that is involved in our relations with Mexico and Nicaragua. We cannot have commercial relations with China, or any other country, of a similar character, without setting up extensive investments in the country itself. There must be branch agencies, sales agencies and all the other paraphernalia of trade and industry, banking facilities, warehouses, etc. In the matter of banking alone, it is necessary to set up a system that is responsible and solvent, to properly handle exchange and credit transactions. Very often native banking facilities do not suffice. They certainly would not in a country like Nicaragua, and doubtless they will not in China. If we want trade with other countries, we have to meet these and other requirements.

There is an element in this country that seems to proceed on the assumption that we can engage in commerce with other nations by merely sending them goods and receiving their checks in settlement. They seem to think it unnecessary to have relations or investments in the country traded with that have to be protected. They know nothing of the way in which business there must be conducted. If we get into trouble with the country, when it goes on a rampage as a result of a revolution, they object to the protection of our commercial interests. Still, they want the trade. They realize that to prosper America, not merely for the manufacturer, but for labor, agriculture and other interests, foreign trade is of great importance to the United States. No enterprises in this country will build up extensive trade relations with other countries, involving as it does the risk of a large amount of capital that is at the mercy of adventurers and unstable governments, unless there is an accepted national policy of protecting our commercial expansion. Thus far we have followed that policy. The criticism of the present administration's acts relating to Mexico, Nicaragua and China involve precisely this policy. The critics want to abandon it. They have a sentimental and fallacious theory that to do so will benefit other peoples and other nations. We must choose one course or the other. If we want to live wholly to ourselves, to confine industry and commerce within the borders of the United States, that is of course our privilege; but every one knows it is impossible economically and that it cannot be done. We are now producing far beyond our domestic needs, and we must have an outlet for our commerce and production or our prosperity will be wrecked.

If the United States were a militaristic nation, bent upon conquest, its foreign policy would be subject to an altogether different estimate. The fact that it is not, and that its dealings with other nations politically and with their nationals commercially are straightforward, honest and constructive, entitles it to demand respect and protection for its interests abroad. When the new China arises, we shall either stay out and let other nations enjoy a profitable trade with it or we shall go in and take our share. If we choose the latter course, we must be prepared to demand justice and square dealing on the part of both the Chinese government and the Chinese themselves, and to enforce these rights should it become necessary.

THE AMERICAN INCOME

The national income for 1926 was $89,682,000,000 or an average of $2,010 among citizens gainfully employed, according to figures just issued by the National Bureau of Economic Research. This represents an annual increase of seven per cent for the years beginning with 1921, or a gain of some $27,000,000,000 between 1921 and 1926.

The figures are quite reliable, since a number of dependable sources have supplied the basis for them. Railroad wage tables and farmers' income estimates by the department of agriculture were available and other compilations have been made of income tax payments which furnish interesting information on the condition of the American pocketbook.

According to the bureau's figures, the average price of staple goods last year was slightly less than five years ago and the purchasing power per capita income has risen 36 per cent. Last year the number of those gainfully employed was 44,600,000 out of a population estimated at 115,000,000. All of them earned some kind of direct income and the average income of these 44,600,000 was $2,010 on the basis laid down by the bureau. This, however, is not the whole story, for the $2,010, expressed in the terms of a dollar's purchasing power in 1913, represented a gain from $947 in 1917 to $1,186 last year.

Our increase in average income has been matched by an increase in average efficiency. Despite the constantly growing population and the relatively inelastic nature of our natural resources, new inventions and greater skill and organization are enabling the average American to progress steadily upward in economic welfare. Our capacity for production is far ahead of our immediate needs and is likely to so continue for some time, thus providing us with an almost unlimited range for the expansion of our prosperity.

OLD MASTERS

with abrupt and visionary eyes,
I saw the huddled tenements arise,
Here where the merry clover danced and shone
Sprang agonies of iron and stone;
There, where green Silence laughed or stood Catharted,
Cheap music blared and evil alleys sprawled.
The roving armies, the shrieking mills;
Brothels and prisons on those kindly hills—
The menace of these things swept over me;
A threatening, unconquerable sea.

A stirring landscape and a generous earth!
Freshening courage and benevolent mirth—
And then the city, like a hideous sore Good God, and what is all this beauty for?
—Louis Untermeyer: "Landscapes."

SOME FIGURES LIE

Figures don't lie; you can prove anything by statistics, according to a New York statistician. We wish the professor would provide us with the figures that prove $25.50 is too much for a piece of felt with a feather in it just before Easter. The roving armies, the shrieking mills; Brothels and prisons on those kindly hills—The menace of these things swept over me; A threatening, unconquerable sea.

THE BEST AGE FOR PUNISHMENT

How old should a child be when physical punishment is administered by the good parent? Is a child ever too young for physical punishment?

When does a child outgrow the need for the use of physical punishment? Some parents, teachers, physicians and child hygiene experts set arbitrary limits for the age for punishment. One of the foremost authorities on child hygiene, Dr. Stanley Blanton, says, "This varies with the intelligence and type of the child, but it is fairly safe to say that the child should not be given physical punishment before the second year nor after the eighth if the intelligence is normal." How sound and sensible Dr. Blanton's teachings are, any reader may see for himself by perusing Dr. Blanton's valuable article, "Training the Child to Obey," in the October, 1926, number of Hygea. Other forms of discipline are generally advised for older children, mainly psychological punishment, such as withdrawal of privileges, denial of pleasures or luxuries, which the child has expected or anticipated, additional tasks for a certain period.

Of course these other forms of discipline are quite as useful in early childhood as physical punishment is, and as a rule the more competent the parent the more freely psychological punishment is used.

Punishment of whatever sort has but one purpose, and this a good parent cannot afford to lose sight of for an instant. Its sole purpose is to inflict pain or discomfort which will be just a little greater than the pleasure or joy the child has derived from the wrong act which brings the punishment. To this end the punishment, whether it be physical or psychological, must be short and sweet, that is, administer the whipping or the scolding or the penalty immediately or as soon as possible after the offense and make it sharp, and then forget it and go on as though nothing has happened. When the parent keeps a "grudge" or continues to manifest displeasure or disappointment or any other unpleasant feeling toward the errant child, only evil comes of it. Whip the child if need be, but when the whipping is over, the incident should be completely wiped out of memory. Neither harp on it subsequently nor slobber over the child in mending sympathy, nor permit such conduct on the part of others. If the punishment is proper and just there can be no regret on the part of the parent and no resentment in the heart of the child. Of course beatings given out of anger or a spirit of revenge are not proper punishment. Any parent with a fair conception of the value of discipline can look back on his or her own childhood and recall nothing but genuine love and admiration how father or mother sometimes confessed that "this hurts me as much as it does you." Punishment is a parent's duty to his child.

It seems to me that for some offenses physical punishment is one of the best remedies even for children in their teens. I have repeatedly urged here the infliction of whippings on boys and girls for smoking. Not that smoking is such an enormous crime, but merely for the moral effect, or the effect on morale, of vigorous treatment of this offense. However, the weight of authority is clearly against me in this, and I defer to the experts. Maybe it doesn't matter much anyway, for the boy or girl who cultivates the smoking habit is in my judgment a hopeless proposition, a bad risk, a total loss—still, I think moderate smoking is harmless for men or women.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Magnification

Is a telescope hard on the eyes, one magnifying 25 times? Should one keep both eyes open? How about a compound microscope magnifying 60 to 250 times? Would such magnification show the red blood corpuscles? What would be the smallest germ that could be seen with it? (P. J.)

Answer—I do not know about telescopes but the use of the microscope is no greater strain than sewing or reading. Most microscopists find it easier to keep both eyes open. The magnification of 60 to 250 diameters will show red corpuscles, but few if any disease germs. Magnification of 500 to 1,000 diameters will show most disease germs.

I am suffering from an endless succession of boils. Please suggest some remedy or preventive. A combination of Epsom salts and cream of tartar is highly recommended by Ben Told. Would it do any good? Should I take a "blood purifier"? (H. C. H.)

Answer—No. Send a stamped envelope with your address and repeat your request.

What are the early symptoms of cancer of the breast? Would like to know, that medical treatment may not be delayed. (R. M.)

Answer—And persistent lump or hard spots, especially if it seems bound down and not movable, should warrant immediate examination by your physician.

FIGHTING THE CORN BORER

Washington, D. C. — An undesirable alien, guilty of far worse things than moral turpitude, that succeeded in getting by the barriers of the United States and that now threatens almost irreparable damage is the European corn borer that is being fought with every resource of the Department of Agriculture and similar state agencies. At its last session Congress made a special appropriation of $10,000,000 for carrying on this fight and the Government has been acquiring a vast array of equipment of all kinds for the campaign. May 1 has been set as the date when the infested area must be cleaned up.

This infested area, which runs to about 60,000 acres, is largely in New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Michigan, and Indiana, and it is hoped that the clean-up campaign will prevent the pest's further spread into Illinois, Iowa, and other Corn Belt States. That the situation is serious is shown by a poster widely distributed by the Department of Agriculture which says that the corn borer threatens America's $2,000,000,000 corn crop.

All farmers in the infested area are expected to cooperate with the federal and state authorities in fighting the pest, and are relied upon to clean up their own premises. To do the work effectively they are directed to burn or plow under completely all corn stalks, stubble, cobs, and trash left in the fields, and to burn all corn stalks, cobs, and trash in barnyards, feedlots, stacks, or elsewhere, that have not been shredded or made into silage.

Farmers who do this work will be paid for all that they do over and above their normal farming operations at a rate not to exceed $2 per acre for field corn and $3 per acre for sweet corn. Those who fail to comply with the regulations, either intentionally or unintentionally, will have their cleaning up done for them by the federal forces under the authority of the state departments of agriculture, and the cost of the enforced clean-up will be charged to the individuals on whose farms the work is done. May 1 has been fixed as the date for the general inspection to determine whether the cleaning up has been done voluntarily and effectively.

LOCAL FIELD DEMONSTRATIONS

Local field demonstration in the selection and operation of machinery used in borer control are now being given and will be continued up until the first of next month as part of the intensive educational and publicity campaign that is being put on cooperatively by the federal extension service, the extension divisions of the state agricultural colleges, and county extension agents. This campaign consists of educational field meetings, activities of local and county committees in the interest of "voluntary clean-up" of the borer, supplying information to the press, and the distribution of educational material through the extension forces.

Dr. A. F. Woods, Director of Scientific Work, United States Department of Agriculture, has general direction of the campaign, with R. H. Kaufman as special assistant to have charge of business and fiscal matters. The Department Bureau of Entomology has direct supervision and conduct of the work with W. H. Larimer in administrative charge in Washington, L. H. Worthly, who has been in charge of corn borer control work for the Government for the past eight years, heads the field organization with headquarters at Toledo, Ohio.

The territory to be covered in the regulatory work has been divided into one district comprising Ohio, Indiana, and Michigan, in charge of E. G. Brewer at Cleveland, and a second district comprising New York and Pennsylvania, in charge of H. N. Bartley at Erie. C. O. Reed, of Ohio State University, heads the engineering division, which will have charge of the inspection of machinery used in the campaign, the instruction of operators, the condition, and operation of machinery in the field, and the field like matters.

The equipment and supplies that have been purchased by the Department of Agriculture out of its ten million-dollar fund includes a little bit of everything except small arms and artillery. No attempt will be made to shoot the borer. But the list includes something like 1000 trucks of various sizes, 775 plows, 1250 tractors, 800 stubble beaters, oil burning apparatus, burning carriages, miles of oil hose, and all incidentals from hoses and rakes to crowbars and chains.

HOW BORER HAS SPREAD

The European corn borer was discovered first in this country in eastern Massachusetts about a little later than Buffalo, N. Y. By 1924 small numbers of them were found in Michigan and in Ohio along the south shore of Lake Erie, but they did not spread much the first year, it is stated. The pests got over into Can-

See-Sawing On Broadway

By Gilbert Swan

New York — The newest gang in the metropolitan area of Manhattan is known as the "Red Hook bunch." And this crude satire on the gang days of old should make many a gangster turn in his grave.

The "Red Hookers" are made up of youngsters, most of them about 14 years of age. They steal plumbing and rob peddlers' carts for movie money or the price of a pool game. Their initiation ceremonies are patterned from the nickel novels of yesterday, consisting of drinking 12 glasses of wine while revolvers are menacingly held over the heads of the new members.

They are a far cry from the bloody days when the Hudson Dusters combed the back streets of Greenwich Village or when Hell's Kitchen was well named.

A large number of these oldtime gangsters, having grown up and being shown how unprofitable was their game, have become prosperous citizens.

One of the most feared gangsters in the Hell's Kitchen belt now lives in a Ninth avenue business place on the very spot of one of his toughest battles.

An organization that works among the gangsters started with two or three, turned them into money-makers in the business world, and then sent them back to show the others how easy it was to be prosperous though honest. A few weeks ago I met a famous second-story worker at a dinner of the ex-gangsters. He was wearing a tailored business suit, was generally well groomed and not until after the dinner did I know his identity.

Most of them considered gangsterism a matter of environment in youth. In the old days most gangsters died young. Twenty-five was a ripe old age, and those who survived outgrew their love of gun-play. There is one such out in the Bronx who now runs a bird and animal store.

The serious profession of parandling, which has been lifted almost to an art in Manhattan, now finds 4900 persons actively employed at avocoid work.

For New York has long been recognized as the beggar's paradise. It is the "sucker" city of the nation for those artisans of the quick touch. The 12 special policemen who know beggars from alpha to omega, can scarcely be expected to make the rounds of some five thousand persons in a single day, week or month.

The mid-town section between Sixth street and Twentieth is the camping ground of most of this army. It works under a peculiar scheme from the time-honored "Buddy" can't you stake a guy to a cup of coffee? to the veteran who can throw his shoulder out of joint on a moment's notice.

Investigation has shown practically every beggar in Manhattan to be a thief. They would run at the idea of work.

The best worker in many a year was a fellow who pushed himself about on a little push-wagon. He would start work every morning by checking his pair of very modern artificial legs at Pennsylvania station. Then he would roll himself about all day, returning to the check room, putting on his legs and hopping in a taxi.

The Question Box

Q. By reason of a treaty or agreement of any kind with Japan and England or other powers, did the United States ever destroy any incomplete battleships? J. C. H.

A. The following is a list of those battleships and battle cruisers which were under construction and were scrapped under the provisions of the Limitation of Armaments Conference: Battleships, Washington, Massachusetts, Indiana, South Dakota, Iowa, North Carolina, and Montana. Battle cruisers, Constitution, United States, Constellation, and Ranger.

Q. Which races have contributed the greatest number of immigrants recently? R. M. F.

A. The principal races contributing immigrant aliens during 1926, were the German (6452), Irish (5440), Mexican (4750), English (4512), Czech (3548) Scandinavian (1597), Italian (1609), and Hebrew (1054).

A curlew recently shot at Shee-more, Ireland, had on one of its legs an aluminum ring with the inscription: "Museum Goteborg, Sweden, 1869."

BIRDS WITH HUMAN TRAITS

BY ARTHUR N. PACK

President, American Nature Ass'n
The more one studies wild birds and animals, the more he is impressed with the fact that they are in many ways like humans. They seem possessed of the same elements, needs, are governed by the same emotions of love, anger, jealousy, greed or faithfulness, and often they display a craftiness that rivals ours.

Take, for instance those water-front dwellers, the gulls. Just as there are some people to whom the mere mention of a snow storm is abhorrent, so there are gulls that cannot bear the thought of winter. When the first cold storms of late autumn sweep the bleak beaches, these birds depart for southern waters.

On the other hand, there are some people who revel in the snow and cold. So there are many gulls who seem to like winter. They brave numbing cold, ice and snowy gales to spend the winter months in the waters that harbor their summer nesting rookeries.

A Thoughtful Gull

If there are fishing boats plying out of port, the gulls meet them, wheeling overhead by thousands, waiting a meal of fish offal.

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE GARRETT FOLSOM is stabbed to death while swimming at Ocean Town, N. J.

Folsom's building companions had been ROGER NEVILLE, a business partner; MRS. HELEN BARNABY and CARMELITA VALDON.

ANASTASIA FOLSOM, eccentric and masterful sister of the dead man, arrives and takes command. At the inquest it is learned that the death weapon was a pichag, an Oriental knife, and it has been bought on the boardwalk.

It is learned that one CROYDON SEARS is a fancier of curious weapons. He admits buying two knives but not the pichag.

Anastasia engages TITUS RIGGS, an architect, to work on the case. DAN PELTON, the dead man's nephew, arrives and is intrigued by some curious French dolls in Folsom's room.

Croydon Sears' initials are discovered in a notebook of Folsom's and Pelton thinks his uncle had been doing some blackmailing. ROBIN SEARS, Croydon's son, is worried now that suspicion is resting on his father. Riggs tells him he has learned that Croydon Sears had purchased a third dagger.

ANGELICA FAIR, Robin's fiancée, questions ROSS, the dead man's former valet, who tells her he thinks Sears had visited at Folsom's home.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXXIV

"You think! Don't you know? Don't you know whether Croydon Sears was ever at Mr. Folsom's home?" Angelica Fair insisted.

"Yes, once, to my knowledge," replied Ross.

"What was the occasion?"

"It was a sort of reception. Miss Fair, Mr. Folsom was having a small exhibition of his art treasures. You know, Mr. Folsom traveled a lot and collected many things such as interest Mr. Sears. I remember seeing him at that time, but I'm not sure of any other time, Miss."

"Oh, well, I don't suppose it matters. I don't believe I know much about detective work. And anyway, I don't believe Mr. Sears killed Mr. Folsom, do you?"

"I shouldn't think so, ma'am," and with that they were in sight of the Majusaca and Angel scurried off to her bathhouse.

As Robin Sears and Riggs entered the auction room, it was Robin who took the lead.

Demanding the proprietor, in a tone which brought him a warning nudge from Riggs, he asked for a private interview.

On learning who he was, this was readily granted, and Mr. Giddings, who represented the absent Mr. Barchester, took them into a private office.

"I'd like to know," Robin began, "if you'd be good enough to tell me of all the knives or daggers my father has bought here."

"I can tell you of most of them," was the reply, "but some small items are sold in bundles, as we call them, and so are not recorded individually. I should think an antique dagger of sufficient importance to be recorded," Robin said, and, as the fire in his eye was growing brighter under the irritation of the other's suavity, Riggs took a hand.

"Never mind the value or importance of the sale," he suggested, "just tell us what your records charge to Mr. Croydon Sears."

The list was interesting, though not long, and the net result of information was that Croydon Sears had bought, in all, six daggers of antique Oriental workmanship.

Robin was amazed, for he knew of only the two that were acknowledged at the inquest.

But he preserved a quiet sternness now; indeed, the young face grew more composed as the situation seemed to acquire seriousness.

"The police have interviewed you as to all this?" he asked of Mr. Giddings.

"Many times, especially in the last twenty-four hours."

"Why so much questioning?" put in Riggs.

"Because they want to be sure that it was Mr. Sears who bought the dagger that killed Mr. Folsom," Giddings replied, straight-forwardly. "Of course, that needn't mean that Mr. Sears used it," he added quickly as he noted Robin's face.

"No, it needn't," said that young man with quiet simplicity.

"And have the police assured them selves?" asked Riggs.

"We can't be positive," Giddings returned. "When Mr. Sears came the second time that evening he was not so much interested, for the sales were of small lots or single pieces of small value. But he did pick up two or three numbers, one of which contained an old pichag."

"Because there was another bundle or lot sold, which also contained an old pichag, and no one can say which was the weapon later exhibited at the inquest."

"I see," said Robin, thoughtfully. "And who bought the other bundle?"

"That we can't say. It was a stranger, and his name, though given, has been found to be fictitious."

"Then he's your murderer?" cried Robin. "Of course, he'd give a fictitious name, and, on the other hand, do you suppose my father would be such a fool as to buy a dagger here where he is well known and then go out and kill somebody with it?"

Mr. Giddings only murmured polite words that sounded well but meant nothing, and the two went away and walked slowly toward home.

"You see," began Robin eagerly, but the other stopped him.

"Listen here, boy," Riggs said. "Say all you like to me, or to your father, or to your sweetheart, but don't air your views on detection in public."

"Why not?"

"Just for one reason: that they are invariably wrong. For instance, the buyer of that bundle giving a fictitious name doesn't write him down a murderer at all. He may be an antique dealer in a small way, who, if he gave his real name and had his purchases traced, could not put upon them the exorbitant prices which he no doubt plans to do. Next, granting your father bought that dagger, and subsequently chose to use it on somebody, that would not prove him a fool, because whoever did that killing depended on the sea to hide forever the weapon of his guilt, not realizing that it would almost invariably be found."

"Then he WAS a fool?"

"No, I should have thought myself that the heavy metal would have been ground into the sand forever."

"Next, Riggs, old man," Robin said, his jaws set like a fighter, we go straight to Croydon, Rochester Sears with this tale."

"We?"

"Yes, sir, we."

And so, on reaching the Hotel Majusaca, two somewhat harassed looking sleuths demanded and obtained audience with C. R. S.

"Why the length of face?" Sears asked, looking at his son.

"Be seated, my friend, and I'll tell you," returned Robin, looking back at him affectionately.

They all sat down, and now and then prompted by Tite Riggs, Robin gave his father a strict and full account of the interview with the auctioneer.

As the tale finished, Croydon Sears sat a full five minutes thinking.

Then, reaching out his hand for a yellow pad of telegram forms which was in a pigeon hole of the desk, he wrote out a message.

"Take it down to the desk, Robin, boy, and send it off. Leave Tite here. Read the thing as you go down."

Robin did as bidden, and was more than slightly mystified to find the message was to his father's private secretary, and said:

"Rush Fleming Stone here as soon as possible."

Implicitly confident as Robin was of his father's innocence, it was a satisfaction to note how the elder man had sent a hurry call for a great and famous detective, but his fine, clear eyes had shown no hint of fear or shame and his face, though grave, was calm and serene as he looked at his son.

"I've sent for Stone," Croydon Sears told Riggs.

"Fleming Stone?"

"Yes. Not every one could command his services so quickly, but he and I are old friends and I'm sure he will not only be glad to come to my assistance but he will enjoy a few days down here."

"Your assistance?" and Tite Riggs looked frankly curious.

"Yes, just that. No, Tite, I didn't murder Garrett Folsom, not that. But there are reasons, strong reasons, why I want the murderer found, the mystery solved."

Would a guilty man send for a famous detective to try to solve the mystery? And will Fleming Stone solve it?

ATTENDS CONFERENCE OF DIVISION WORKERS

Marshall Graff, district representative of the University of Wisconsin Extension division, returned Friday from Madison where he attended an important conference of division workers. Plans for future work of the division this year were formulated. The most important work is a high school survey which soon will be made in all schools.

The survey takes in every senior.

They are asked what school the graduate will attend next, when he will attend the school, the business or profession he will enter, what college entrance requirements he still needs, and matters of special correspondence work and vocational courses of business and engineering for those who will not continue their school work. There are 103 high schools in this district.

WORK FOR THINGS YOU WANT

BY OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

SHE had always been poor. Life had spelled failure. No matter what work she took up she failed. All around her, people were living in luxury. They had limousines with liveried chauffeurs, took annual trips to the Mediterranean or Bermuda or Hawaii, had homes in Florida, and lodges in Canada.

But she was an onlooker and a struggler with an obsession for luxury of which she could not even touch the ragged edge.

Then a relative left her money. She ceased her work and devoted time to spending. She had her car and trips and fine clothes. The money lasted a few years. When it was gone she walked into a rising tide and lay down.

Her story has been interpreted in every theme of human emotion. But most of us will pity her, because most of us know what it is to long for those very things—and do without! Most people are longing for something they can never have, perhaps not Mediterranean trips, but something equally beyond their reach.

Fortunately it does not always have such disastrous results. It is considered the finest driving power in the world—this quality of wanting things enough to work for them. If there is repeated failure, two things may be wrong. Either our minds are so focused on the things we are going to have as a result of work that we are incapacitated for that work, or we have ambitions out of all reason, considering our physical, mental and educational make-up.

One sees an entire section of the very conceivable corner of the globe, complex, sticks its tongue out at him, and calls him a failure.

One sees an entire section of the paper given to advertising trips to ever conceivable corner of the globe. We think the whole world is traveling but ourselves.

But turn a page! Read the classified ads—not people wanting luxury, but work-old people, sick people, men with families. It tells another story. If our wanters have been working overtime—enough to sour us so we can't see a spring robin—should we give ourselves a good moral kick and blush a little while we're doing it?

READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE

THE little girl came running fast. She said, "My gander caught at last. I think 'twas very fine of you to help me in my chase. But, first of all please tell me who you are, and what you plan to do." As Scouty said, "We're Tinymites," a smile spread over her face.

"Oh, yes," she said, "Friend Mother Goose told me your hand was running loose and looking all about her land. I'm glad you stopped off here. I'd like to have you play with me. Let's run up to my house and see if we can't find amusement that will bring you all much cheer."

So, off they all ran, up a hill. Course Clowny had to take a spill, and when he did he started rolling like a rubber ball. "Wee Cooey caught him by the toes, and then he shouted, 'Goodness knows, no matter where we travel to, you always have to fall.'"

The climb was long, and rather hard, but soon they reached the small girl's yard, and Scouty, looking

PARIS SCULPTOR SAYS WOMEN MUST CHANGE STYLE OF HEADDRESS MANY TIMES DURING DAY TO BE ELITE

BY NINON

A DIFFERENT mode of hairdressing for every hour of the day. "Every bob suited to its wear."

These seem to be the main slogans of Monsieur Antoine, Paris sculptor-artist-barber, who has come to America, to glorify, "refine and educate" the American bob.

"Would any woman of taste wear her hair in the same way all day? Her tennis costume to the opera? Of course not. And yet thousands of women wear their hair the same way for every hour of the day. They could so easily change it."

"The hair is worn smoothly for the street, let us say. When Madame comes in she could fluff it up, put a curl here where there was none before, part it differently. So little trouble and such a difference! For evening a bandeau, or perhaps a tiara for formal wear. Or an elaborate headpiece that would lend beauty and dignity."

The costume and the occasion determine the type of headdress, Antoine explained. And, of course, the type of individual whose hair is under advisement. For upon this one point Antoine is insistent. The American bob should have greater variety. Standardization may be all right for business, he said, but bold! Ah! No where on earth is individuality more needed.

About seven years ago Antoine contrived the shingle bob, which eliminates the ugly, harsh back line and enhances the beauty of many a woman. He also has ideas about beauty in general. He has evolved certain rules for make-up which he believes will bring dazzling beauty to women who follow them. Some of them he confined to me:

"Shade the eyes from above, darken them from below. Point the eyebrows. Rouge the cheeks on, carefully graduating the tint towards the ears. Choose your powder to match your natural tint. Dark powders give a sophisticated expression and emphasize the eyes."

"In rouging the lips, exaggerate the more perfect one, diminish the other. Wear much make-up for evening. Not for none for sports. Outdoors, hardly touch the lips but brush the eyebrows well."

But of course hair is his specialty. He sees women as so many pieces of architecture and says harmony of the bob with the face, the character and build of its wearer is imperative.

"The very idea of the same cut for everyone is preposterous," he exclaimed. "How could old, young, slender, stout, all have the same bob suit them? Hair must be molded to the head. I do not cut or dress hair. I sculpture it. Only by suiting the style of dress to the occasion and the type of cut to the wearer can real beauty be attained."

GINGHAM ROOM NEW IDEA FOR SUMMER

NOW that the combination living-dining room is the thing, whether from necessity or choice, what the last word is the vogue for gingham drapes and upholstery. Naturally, the heavy upholstery textiles formerly used for living rooms would be quite out of place in a dining room. Food and velvet don't mix. The dining room requires a lighter washable material. Yet with present living habits it must be colorful enough to suit the taste for the living room as well.

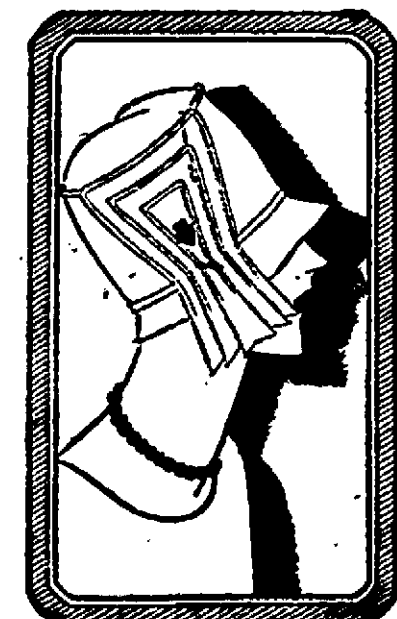

SUNFAST NEWS Interior decorators have discovered there is nothing fugitive about colors in gingham. The threads are dyed before woven into the cloth, which makes it tubfast and sunfast, two of the foremost qualities required in a living-dining room interior. Manufacturers are now producing a special grade of gingham especially for upholstery purposes in all the wanted shades and designs.

A charming living-dining room has the color scheme tied up with two gingham. A golden yellow with a vermillion stripe is used for the window drapes, the mantel trim, the table runner and lamp shade. The other is a plaid effect in tones of red, orange, green, yellow and black, and is used for the easy chair, the bench cover and the curtains to the three-cornered Normandy cabinet. A red cornice over the window emphasizes the red stripe in the gingham.

A COLOR SCHEME An oatmeal wallpaper of mauve gray is used with plum colored rug, the center rug, a dark plum, and a small one in gray and plum. This

SAINT AND SINNER

By Anne Austin

Faith looked long and intently at the "twelve good men and true" who had at last been accepted by both the defense and the prosecution, and sworn in as the jury of the county court as jurors to pass upon the evidence in the case of "The State versus Cherry Lane Wiley."

"I can pick 'em, can't I?" Cherry whispered to Faith a low purr of laughter in her throat. "A sweet bunch of daddies. If I do say it myself. Look at the red-headed old boy, agline me already! I'm going to have every last one of these thrill-hungry old darlings in love with me before this case is over. You just watch me!"

"They look terribly bored to me, all except the red-headed man," Faith retorted. "I wonder if all juries look in if they were about to go to sleep, or as if they were low-grade morons."

"Churchill says no lawyer wants a smart jury," Cherry laughed, guardedly, behind her handkerchief, for she knew quite well that thirty pairs of eyes, belonging to as many reporters, were fixed upon her, and that her every expression was faithfully reported in every newspaper throughout the country. "Our kind of people—all of them, darling," she went on exultantly. "Ordinary working people—not a rich man among them, thank heaven. Couldn't be better, I suppose. Anyway, Churchill's tickled to death, and Banning would be sore as a boiled owl, if he didn't feel cock-sure that he'll get a conviction anyway."

"Sh-h!" Faith warned her. "Banning's going to make his opening address to the judge and jury. This is going to be hard, honey. He'll state his case, what he expects to prove, you know. Don't get angry, darling. Please! Hold tight to my hand."

When Banning began to speak, Jim Lane reached for one of Cherry's cold little hands. Faith for the other. But Cherry raised her bright head gallantly, fixed her wide, childish eyes of gold fringed with bronze unblinkingly upon the "silly" little district attorney, whose opening words were delivered in

Love Letters Of The Great

AS COMPILED BY DIANA RICE

GUSTAVUS II ADOLPHUS 1591-1632—sweet lady, in all ways your friend

The Swedish King's youthful sweetheart, Ebba Brahe, was separated from him by his mother, Queen Christina. Finally, Gustavus married a princess, properly selected for him. Ebba wedded a man of her own station who had been conveniently provided in order to soothe her when she lost Gustavus.

Gustavus Adolphus to Ebba Honorable Lady, Heart's Darling Mine.

Deprived of occasion to hold converse with you owing to my enforced speedy departure, I now make bold to address this letter unto you, praying that you may bear me in remembrance what time my absence shall endure, and, likewise, that you may accept the faithful love I feel for you. Furthermore, I beg you to fulfill the promise you did make me, and to appear to me whether you have taken speech with your father; for this year concession will I repay you with all due love, loyalty and devotion.

Whereas, since time is denied to pursue my present writing further, hence, with loving and ever faithful heart I commend to the blessing of Lord God Almighty your soul for its salvation, your body for its health, and me for an abiding place within your heart. Farewell, my dearest, sweetest, lady-love. Beware of false people and their tongues; and take it not too hard if my lady mother, the Queen, should somewhere treat you with severity. I do beseech you to learn with the more patience as I am ever ready to suffer death for your sake. May God preserve you. I am, while I draw breath, by own

BOARD HAS RIGHT TO CHANGE SHERIFF'S PAY

Madison—(AP)—The compensation of sheriffs for the board of prisoners may be changed from the rate fixed during the sheriff's term of office, the attorney general held today.

The opinion was in answer to a query from district attorney V. M. Stols. Eau Claire, as to the regularity of a resolution adopted by the county board in Nov. 1925, after the sheriff had taken office, cutting his compensation for full food from $1.05 to 90 cents per day.

In two other opinions, Secretary of Treasury Sol Levitan and R. E. Loveland, Secretary of the state retirement system, were informed as to the board's powers and the treasury officers duties regarding securities. The letter accompanying the opinion to Mr. Levitan said the state annuity board wished to transfer Wisconsin Mortgage and Security Co. bonds to a Milwaukee bank from the state treasury office. The opinion held that the board has power to withdraw the securities from the treasury. "And the treasurer is not vested with supervisory power as to the wisdom of the investment made by the board or the method of collecting."

In the general held the proposed insurance of several million dollars worth of annuity board securities in the treasurer's office are secured by bonds and that the board need not insure them against fire and theft.

"The state treasurer is required to give an account of his office in such amount as shall be required by the annuity board, the cost thereof to be paid out of the general funds and not out of any special funds of the board," the latter opinion said.

WRISTON APPEALS TO GRADS TO ADJUST IDEALS TO COLLEGE

Warns Against Working at Cross Purposes With Faculty Ideals

Intellectual excellence as "the true ideal of college work" in the colleges of the country is being reestablished, Dr. Henry M. Wriston, president of Lawrence college, said in an address at the annual meeting of the Lawrence Alumni Home club at the Lawrence hotel Friday night. Over-emphasis on outside activities has begun to swing away to make the training of the mind the principal business of faculty and students, he continued.

Dr. Wriston said the reaction is noticeable "not alone among scholars and faculties and boards of trustees, but among the students themselves." In an appeal to the Lawrence graduates to join this forward-looking group, the speaker said in part: "It is an inescapable fact that in many institutions the alumni organization is not a constructive force making for the unity and harmony and progress of the whole. It is not infrequently a force making for division and disunity. It is a force that is not in sympathy with the faculty, and certainly widely at variance with modern tendencies in education."

"The alumni should concern themselves first of all with the things for which the college is primarily organized, with the things of the mind and spirit. They must understand that there is a steady drift, and a fruitful one, toward the reestablishment of intellectual excellence as the true ideal of college work. That statements does not mean that athletics are to go. It does mean that athletics must be subjected to the same scrutiny to which every other phase of college life is subjected."

FALSE STANDARD
"When a student is given the distortion of emphasis which arises from favoritism to athletics, when he is paid, directly or indirectly, to come to college, we know a false standard is created. We know that the student is not being trained to be a constructive force in the moulding of character. Whatever there may be in recruiting, in coaching, in management which distorts the value of victory at the expense of fairness and sportsmanship, destroys the value of athletics in character formation. We have no right to blind ourselves to this conclusion."

"The social structure of our colleges, in their fraternity and sorority relationships, is often destructive of cohesive spirit, of group loyalty, which must exist in any such cooperative enterprise as that of learning. Fraternities and sororities are used by the educational institutions if kept within their proportionate sphere of activity and administered upon a sane and sensible basis, but when the protection of the fraternity becomes an issue paramount to the reconstruction of the life of one of its members, when social groups become snobbish when the selective principle is operated upon false premises of wealth or position or fur coats or athletic capacity, then the system of fraternities and sororities becomes a destructive force."

"Last of all, the alumni, to be effective, must be able to do it. It profits not at all to build one type of organization which we call a faculty, and then to build another type of organization which we call the alumni association, and have the two work at cross purposes."

"It requires only the joining of the alumni with the faculties, the board of trustees and the student bodies to make fully effective the drift toward the complete reestablishment of the intellectual development as the principal business of college."

The college should be a strong moral force, Dr. Wriston, superintendent of schools in Appleton, said in a talk on the relation of Lawrence college to the educational life of the state. Lawrence graduates "have made a strength of character that has made them desirable as teachers and has made them approved by principals and superintendents throughout the state. An equally high type of moral character is found in Lawrence, Mr. Wriston believed, and the same emphasis on strength of character is given by the faculty and administration as those of other college generations."

The need for young people in politics was stressed by Lawrence. "The need of the youngest assemblymen in the Wisconsin legislature and called the 'Boy Mayor of Washburn' his home. College graduates should enter politics because they have youth, enthusiasm, intelligence and observation, the young politician said."

A. L. Franke, president of the Lawrence College Alumni association introduced A. J. Anderson, alumni secretary, as toastmaster. Mr. Anderson introduced the three speakers of the evening. Miss Dora Elin, contralto, sang a group of songs, accompanied by Miss Irene Schell at the piano. About 75 alumni of the college were present.

LAWRENCE GRADUATE GETS PROFESSORSHIP

A professorship in the Harvard school of Business Administration at Harvard university has been accepted by Howard Thompson Lewis, a graduate of Lawrence college, in the class of 1910. Since leaving the local college he was professor of economics and sociology at the State Normal school of Kansas, professor of economics at Hiram college, associate professor of political science at the University of Idaho, and dean of the College of Business Administration at the University of Washington at Spokane, Wash. He recently returned from Italy where he spent a year as professor in an Italian university.

PROF. TREVER ON 1927 FACULTY OF UNIVERSITY SHIP

Lawrence Man Is Granted Leave of Absence from Institution for Year

Prof. A. A. Trever of the history department at Lawrence college, will be one of the 50 faculty men on the International University cruise around the world beginning in Sept. 1927, and continuing through May, 1928. He has been granted a sabbatical year's leave of absence from Lawrence while he occupies the chair of professor of European history on the "floating university." Mrs. Trever will accompany Dr. Trever, who will return to Lawrence in the fall of 1928. His successor during his absence has not been appointed.

The idea of the International University cruise, a co-educational undertaking, was carried out for the first time this year and its success warranted its continuance another term. It will enroll about 550 men and women students of which 400 will be men. The faculty in charge of the cruise are teachers in the foremost colleges and universities of the country. It will be made on the Cunard liner "Aurania."

Sight-seers are eliminated from the cruise as only those interested in it from an intellectual point of view are accepted. Selection is based on good health, character, and genuine intellectual interest.

A full year of university work will be given, and the courses of study offered include courses in art, astronomy, biology, botany, the classics, in economics, English, foreign trade, in the modern languages, in geography, in government, and history, in international relations, journalism, mathematics, navigation, psychology and sociology. Credit may be transferred back by the students to their regular colleges and universities.

Vitalization of the courses of study is expected to be made possible by the "universities of the seas," and a close personal relationship between faculty and students is a major result. The development of international relations, and of a world-mindedness point of view, will be stressed.

The cruise will touch all the far corners of the earth, and at stopping places, the faculty will act as guides for student groups. Stops will be made at Havana, at the Panama Canal, Los Angeles, Hilo, Honolulu, at cities in Japan, China, Siam, Java, Ceylon and Ceylon, India, Egypt, Palestine, Greece, Italy, Belgium, Germany, Austria, Czechoslovakia, France, and at Manila, Singapore, Aden, Constantinople, Palermo, Algiers, Gibraltar and Lisbon. It will end at New York city on May 13.

The play, "Aaron Slick from Punkin Center" was presented before a full house Friday night at the Cedar Grove school, district No. 1, Greenville. The play receipts amounted to $31.15 and a total of $27.75 was realized from the candy sale. Emma Meltz acted as auctioneer. The Cedar Grove Parent-Teacher association is planning to build a stage in the schoolhouse and the proceeds of the play and candy sale will probably go into the building fund.

Specialty acts were given by Mr. and Mrs. Archie Clark, Tony Krook, Clem Hickaby, Ira Leacy of Appleton, Corliss Leacy of Dale and Malcolm Nieman and Alice Jamison of Greenville. Several school children also appeared on the program. Plans are being made to present the play at the Stephensville auditorium sometime after Easter.

SENATE APPROVES $7.50 WEEKLY AID FOR SANATORIA

Legislature Finally Agrees to Take a Few Days Vacation

Madison—(AP)—The senate Friday disposed of its calendar in short order and then spent the remainder of its two hour session discussing the question of a vacation.

The final decision reached by both houses which adjourns the assembly until Tuesday evening and the senate until the following morning was objected to. Four senators who recorded unanimous consent to absent themselves for next week were joined by an equal number Saturday.

The group consists of Senators Lange, Barker, Daggett, Keppel, Tensdale, Goodland, Doidt and W. L. Smith.

Friday's calendar included a number of bills up for regular routine, such as engrossment and third reading and the only two bills up for passage were laid over until next week.

The senate engrossed Senator Langes bill relating to a state appropriations of $150,000 to county sanatoria where the state would pay seven dollars a week for the upkeep of patients as their share in contributing to the county fund.

Senators Chase's bill providing for the empowering county school superintendents to appoint one or more assistant teachers to aid them in their work was strenuously objected to by Senator Goodland and was finally engrossed by a vote of 19-5.

The popular belief among the senators there will be little work done next week. One committee, the committee on state and local government, has adjourned for the week and will hold no meetings.

Three bills introduced Friday included two brought forward by committees. One asked that a tax of five per cent be placed on the gross receipts of theatres, moving picture houses, and organizations conducting prize fights or boxing exhibitions. Exceptions were made in the case of entertainment for charity or conducted by religious associations.

Another would allow the payments on educational bonuses for ex-soldiers to continue until 1930 for all such veterans now in school. It would eliminate further distribution of the bonus among those who have not taken advantage of the law up to present date.

Senator Keppel introduced a bill asking that house to house canvassers be regarded as peddlers and merchants under the statutes and be compelled to secure a permit and license before undertaking such employment.

Despite considerable argument over adjournment during next week, the assembly Friday completely through a long calendar, arguments on even the important measures being confined to short periods.

The Tews bill, removing the statutory requirement that wholesale fish dealers be licensed, the license to cost $25, was killed by a vote of 49 to 29. Argument against the bill was that it removed all power of the state over the wholesale fish sale houses, as under the license law they can be governed by threats of revocation of license. Mr. Tews' argument was that the law was not enforced and therefore was of no value on the statute books.

Other bills killed were included the Sonnenmann measure relating to net licenses in inland waters and the Rheingans bill relating to set line fishing in certain waters.

How To Play Bridge

By Milton C. Work
Readers of The Post-Crescent are invited to send their bridge problems to the Bridge Editor of The Post-Crescent and they will be forwarded to Mr. Work, author of these bridge articles. Mr. Work will answer every letter.)

The pointer for today is: When playing a No-Trump, Postpone as long as possible the lead of a seven-card suit containing Ace-King-Queen when one has four cards and the other three.

Today's pointer is one which many players need. A suit of four cards in one hand and three in the other, headed by Ace-King-Queen, regardless of how the three honors may be divided, seems to contain a special lure; it looks like an easy way to win tricks, and many Declarers, the moment they obtain the lead, jump for it with all the energy of a hungry trout after the first grasshopper of the season. It is, however, a lead which should be postponed as long as possible; do not lead that suit until the adversaries have established their suit. For example, take the No-Trump hand given yesterday:

North
H. 8 5 5 2
D. A 3 3
C. K 9 3
West
S. J 9 7 5 2
H. 10 4
D. J 7
C. 10 8 7 2
East
S. K 8 3
H. A J 7
D. 10 9 5 4
C. Q J 4
South
S. A 10 6
H. K Q 9 3
D. A 8 3
C. A 6 5

After East won the first trick with the King of Spades (why he was permitted to win that trick was explained yesterday), he returned a Spade, which Dummy won with the Queen. Declarer still has the adverse suit stopped, so he should postpone the Diamond lead. Declarers seventh

REBUILD FOX FOR SERVICE ON RIVER

Ancient Government Boat Is in Drydock Awaiting Repairs

Kaukauna—The U. S. Government tug Fox is being fitted out for plying up and down the Fox river this year. The Fox was dismantled last fall upon the completion of the new steel tug Menasha and it was believed at that time that it would not be used any more. However, according to N. Rasmussen, Kaukauna's lockmaster, plans are being made to make several changes on the Menasha and the Fox will be used to do the work of that tug. The Menasha is now making several trial trips before making the changes, and the Fox is in the dry dock at Kaukauna.

Workmen were busy Friday along the Fox river putting out buoys. They expected to have the work finished by Sunday.

Work of repairing the canal wall at Kaukauna from the head lock to the first lock will be started just as soon as the water goes down. Mr. Rasmussen said. Government officials expect the work to cost between $40,000 and $50,000. Concrete will replace the present stone construction and the wall will be built two feet higher with the river side lined with clay. Equipment for building the wall is being brought to Kaukauna and two supply houses have been set upon the bank.

CHURCH WILL PROBE FALLING OF BRICKS AT FOREST JUNCTION

Pastor and Janitor Tell Congregation Fragments Are Menace to Citizens

Special to Post-Crescent
Forest Junction—Fragments of brick, which have been persistently falling from an upper portion of the church steeple, became the subject of controversy at the annual business meeting of Zion Evangelical congregation on Thursday afternoon.

Contentions of leading members at the meeting that no repairs on the church building were necessary for the coming year were calmly met with the display of broken bricks as evidence by the pastor, whose testimony was corroborated by the janitor who declared that the display was only a small portion of an entire shovelful he had recently swept together on the walk. Conflicting discussion resulted in the adoption of a resolution that if extensive repairs were actually necessary the spire should be removed from the building. A committee consisting of John F. Otto, George Seybold and Frank Kloehn was elected to act with the board of trustees, M. Schubring, John F. Kloehn and John Seybold, in making an investigation.

The wooden framework of the structure appears to be in a satisfactory condition. Only a small portion of the brick covering, which is particularly subjected to the process of weathering just below the eaves of the belfry, appears to be defective; and the only immediate danger seems to lie in the opportune dropping of bricks upon persons standing below.

SPIRE 112 FEET HIGH
The spire, said to measure 112 feet from the ground, is the only tall structure of any kind in the village, and its removal from the building would virtually remove the location of the village by day from a distance. Only once since its erection in 1895, when it was damaged by lightning fifteen years ago, had it been necessary laboriously to erect a scaffold to its very tip to effect repairs.

Other business transacted at the meeting included the reelection of M. Schubring to the board of trustees for three years provisions for a new fence at the cemetery; an increase of salary for the janitor; the placing of the salary of the church organist on the annual budget; and a gift of a new piano from the Woman's Missionary society was properly acknowledged. The treasurer's report submitted by John Seybold covered transactions aggregating approximately $4,500.

The sympathy and service department of the Christian Endeavor society of the church is planning an Easter egg shower to be held in the church basement at 8 o'clock next Friday evening for the benefit of the Racine and North Racine Italian mission of the Evangelical church. The donations of fresh eggs will be forwarded to Miss Ruth Christner, missionary worker, for distribution at Easter tide among

SENATE OBJECTS TO USING STATE FUNDS FOR GOLF COURSES

Bill Which Would Permit State Operated Golf Links
in State Parks

Madison, Wis., (AP)—The State of Wisconsin will not go into the "gold" business if the state senate can help it.

In Thursday's session the senate killed Senator Cushman's bill which would permit the state, through the conservation commission, to erect and maintain golf courses on state parks.

Senator Blanchard assailed the measure as one which would give unnecessary powers to the conservation commission.

"If this and other bills like it pass," the senator said, "in a few years I will expect to walk through the corridors of the state capitol and see exhibits and wall cases filled with various colored knickers, flamboyant golf socks and other appropriate golfing regalia."

The bill was finally defeated 17-14. The senate passed Assemblyman Behrmann's bill prohibiting use of dynamite near muskrat or beaver houses, as a method of hunting.

Senator Carroll's bill to permanently mark the Michigan Wisconsin boundary line was unanimously passed.

RECONSIDER BILL

The Baumann bill, allowing municipalities to set their own water rate schedule, which was a source of heated debate in the assembly Wednesday, will again come before the lower house under a motion to reconsider the vote by which it was engrossed.

Assemblyman Duncan was author of the motion.

The City of Madison, its mayor and police department, were thanked in a resolution for their cooperation with the assembly resolution against speeding around the Capitol square. The resolution criticizing the city for the speed at which motorists were allowed to travel around the square was adopted a few days ago.

It brought a quick response from the city officials pledging cooperation.

The Budington resolution, which would have prohibited use of the assembly chamber by any group upon the objection to such use by ten members of the assembly, was killed 59 to 25.

The author asked that it be discharged because the visitors "disarranged the desks, papers and books of the members to such and extent as to handicap the transaction of business."

The Miller bill, allowing the posting of notices in place of fences around wild game refuges was passed by the assembly, as was the Keisner bill, compelling stopping their cars to receive discharge passenger on highways to leave ample clearance for passing cars.

STRONG CAST IN "THE MYSTERIOUS RIDER"

With Jack Holt and Betty Jewel in the principal parts, the cast of "The Mysterious Rider," coming to the Fischers Appleton Theatre on Sun. Mon. Tues. is one of the strongest Paramount has ever given the popular Zane Grey's stories.

Holt plays Bent Wade, "the mysterious rider," who fights to save the homesteads of the desert ranchers from illegal seizure, and Betty Jewel plays Dorothy King, daughter of the city financier who falls in love with the out-of-doors man.

The villain is Cliff Harkness, played by Charles Sellon, and the role of his henchman, Tom Saunders, falls to Ivan Christie.

Tom Kennedy, who clicked so well in "We're in the Navy Now," and "Behind the Front," has a comedy role, and Guy Oliver and Jane Keckley, two veteran character players, sustain the pathetic element of the story.

Arthur Hoyt has one of the "shrimp" parts for which he is distinguished, this time playing the secretary to Mark King, financier, who is personified by David Torrence. Albert Hart plays the sheriff and some clever children and character players carry the important "bits" of the production.

Much of the picture was taken on the Mojave desert, where the company spent two weeks on location.

AND WOMEN

For one night only Thurs. April 7 at Fischers Appleton Theatre our theatregoers will doubtless find the enjoyment of splendid farce, Keckley, acted by a specially selected company, organized and rehearsed by Edgar Selwyn, the producer, in the successful play, "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes," which appears to be more or less the rage of the entire country.

Comedy that sparkles, bubbles, froths, seethes, glitters — whatever else comedy is supposed to do, it does it all in "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes," the brand new play by Anita Loos and John Emerson, which is a dramatization by them of Miss Loos' popular book of the same name. Those who have read the book will remember all about blonde Lorelei Lee and her adventures and those of her girl chum, Dorothy, the two young women who were invariably successful when it came to preying upon credulous gentlemen.

As in the book, this comedy deals with successful methods of gold-digging as practiced in the best organized gold-digging circles. Lorelei works her baby blue eyes and her innocent personality for all they are worth, and Dorothy does rougher work when necessity calls.

By the end of the first act Lorelei has bought a diamond tiara from a titled Englishwoman with money furnished by the lady's husband, and before the final curtain she has won for herself a wealthy young Philadelphia reformer.

The methods used by this radiant blonde are exceedingly funny and they are exceptionally clever in their satire on both feminine ingenuity and male stupidity.

Lorelei and Dorothy are on the stage practically all the time. The agile plots and counterplots of the two girls to keep out of hot water and not lose a trick at the same time are the delights of the play. And the other characters involved have their own troubles all due to Lorelei and Dorothy making "ducks and drakes" of them.

"Gentlemen Prefer Blondes" made a sensational success in Chicago before going into New York and it ran in the Windy City for six months. In New York the play is well on its way to a year's run.

It is most unusual for a comedy or farce to require 21 characters to tell the story. Owing to the many characters mentioned in the book by Miss Loos, it has been necessary to retain most of them for the stage version.

that the spirit and atmosphere of scenes and situations shall not lose any of the charm they had between covers. So there are 21 actors in the company.

John Marion will have the role of Lorelei Lee and Mary Board that of Dorothy. Other leading players will be William Courteen, Herbert Standing, Lois Arnold, Ada Sinclair, Edouard La Roche, Martin Wolfson, Josephine Morse, Jay Reed, Leona Maricle, Gene Paul, Fred Monti and Fred Backus.

England has a poster-stamp craze.

POPULAR COMEDIAN IN WHO CARES

Charlie Murray is one of the best known comedy character actors now appearing on the scene. Many people will remember him from his old days with Essie Love. A good picture with some comedy part in it is not complete without him. Casting directors immediately think of him when they have such a part to fill. He is at present appearing in Cosmo Hamilton's "Who Cares" at The New Bijou Monday and Tuesday with William Haines, Dorothy Devore, Lloyd Whitlock, Wanda Hawley, Beverly Bayne, Ralph Lewis, Vera Lewis. Among these well known people he is like a member of the family.

Rubber toys, balls and balloons sent from this to other countries last year had a total value of nearly $850,000.

recoil that causes pitching, galloping and bobbing, according to C. Milhaupt of the Milhaupt Spring and Auto company, local distributors of Gabriel snubbers.

When a car equipped with Gabriel snubbers strikes a bump, the car spring compresses, causing the snubber belt to recoil into the cup releasing the anti-pre-loading brake. This latter device, which is a new improvement of the Gabriel snubbers, prevents the snubber coils from operating until the car springs deflect beyond certain limits. When the springs deflect beyond this point, the internal coil compres-sion spring expands and instantly takes up the slack in the belt.

When the rebound of the car springs starts the coils of the belt immediately tighten creating friction on the multiple coils and gradually increasing the brake action until the car springs return to normal position without jerk or abrupt stop.

For 20 years, Gabriel snubbers have been the dominant spring control device and more than 6,000,000 car owners now use them, according to Mr.
Milhaupt. These cars meet business men who equip their product with Gabriels and 25 manufacturers drill their car frames for these jolt preventing devices. There are at present 3,200 authorized Gabriel distributors who sell Gabriel snubbers on a 30 day money back guarantee.

Small Houses, Apartments
Recommended By Babson

Babson Park, Fla.—Roger W. Bab-son continues his series of interviews on the ten leading industries. These interviews are written as a help, both to the young man and to the investor.
The general series is known as "Your Boy's Business."

PRESENT DAY DIFFICULTIES
A reader who was endeavoring to sell homes recently received a message from a woman prospect somewhat as follows:

"You ask me to buy a home, but why should I want a home? I was born in a hospital; amused in a kindergarten; educated at a boarding school; courted in an automobile; married in a church; now live in an apartment; go to the movies for entertainment; when I am taken to a hospital, and a large bill is sent me, I am under a doctor's care. Really, what use have I for a home? What I want is a garage with a bedroom and a bath."

The above letter may be an exaggeration, but it brings out in general way the growing desire of most people for smaller houses. The time when people are today economizing on living quarters; but also that with the automobile they are able to move in a vicar area and hence do not place so much importance in the size of the house they live in. It is almost impossible to find a single reason for this what it cost; apartment houses with only large apartments have many vacancies. The demand today is for small six or seven room houses and apartments of three rooms, bath and kitchenette.

INVESTMENT BUILDING
There is a great deal of difference between building one's self a home in which to live and in building a home to sell or rent. It is always a good time to build a home for one's self. The birds do not consider commodity prices or Babsonians when deciding to build a home for their family. The birds would be well followed by our young people today in this custom as in some of the other virtues possessed by birds.

The building of hotels, apartment houses, office buildings, or even homes for the purpose of selling or renting is a profit is another matter. Real estate centers are declining. The house shortage has been pretty much overcome; and the real estate market is quieting down very rapidly. These conditions explain why many of the keenest investors are not now undertaking the construction of more hotels, office buildings, etc.

BUILDING COSTS DECLINING
In 1913, before the war, the Babson building materials index stood at 105.
This index is made up of the following: Brick, cement, glass, lime, bath, lumber, nails and structural steel.
After the war this index rose rapidly to a maximum of 205 which it retained in 1920. Since then there has been a general decline and the index now stands approximately at 182. This index, however, does not tell the whole story. For instance, although the price of labor in many sections is higher, yet carpenters, bricklayers and masons are doing more work in less hours. Lumber much better, and the cost of building is to be reduced. There are practically no delays today in the delivery of goods, which is an important factor in the cost of building. In Florida, where I now am, building can probably be done for 20 per cent less than was the case in many other sections.
Economists believe that building costs like other prices, will be lower during the next few years. This means that a period of sharp competition is ahead and it is not a good time for one to start into the building business. The cities and towns, however, do not seem to realize this. They are building up their cities under this condition by cutting down taxes.

The tax situation has become a heavy drag on the building industry.
Taxes have been so increased in most sections during the past ten years that the tax collector is getting about all the net income from rented property. This is very discouraging to building and especially to investment building. My father felt this situation coming for sometime and told me before his death last month that either real estate taxes must be reduced or the building industry will be seriously hampered. Recently I have been engaged in making an inventory of real estate and to my surprise I find that it does not include one inch of real estate, except his home, and his holdings of mortgages are greatly reduced. My father personally made most careful analytical studies of investments; in fact, to him more his statistical training. Moreover his vision was as keen and his thoughts far as always correct.

It is quite evident in many cities that real estate taxation is harming the building and real estate business.

CAN'T FIND DECENT ARGUMENT AGAINST LIFE INSURANCE

Protection of Those We Love Considered Man's First Duty

Of the 11,738 policy holders in the New York Life Insurance company, who died during 1926, 1918 succumbed to heart disease, 1,222 to cancers and tumors, 1,192 to influenza and pneumonia, 859 to accidents and 861 to consumption with the balance scattered among a host of other causes. To the beneficiaries of the policy holders the company paid $43,761,040.77, according to McGowan and Baker, 104 E.
College-ave, local representatives of the company.

Of those who died, 1,158 were 30 years of age and under, 1,597 were between 30 and 40, 2,499 were between 40 and 50, 2,968 were between 50 and 60 and 3,506 were over 60 years of age. These figures easily can prove the value of insurance, according to Mr. F.
McGowan. Included in the number of policy holders who died during 1926 were 1,272 women whose beneficiaries collected $2,200,692.89.

The fact that insurance should be applied for, as early as possible is made clear when it becomes known that during 1925 17,996 people who applied for approximately $74,000,000 in insurance were turned away by the company because they were too late.
They could not pass the medical examination that would admit them into the organization, according to Mr.
McGowan.

President Calvin Coolidge says:
"There is no argument against the taking of life insurance. It is established that the protection of one's family or those near to him is the one thing most to be desired and there is no medium of protection that is better than insurance. Our government has given close attention to insurance companies and they are on as sure a foundation that it is in a position to guaranty method of protection of our people."

The New York Life Insurance company is a great cooperative thrift society which is owned and controlled by more than 2,000,000 policy holders, according to Mr. McGowan. There are no stockholders. Total assets for the policy holders are more than $114,000,000. The company has been in existence for 81 years and has paid more than $825,000,000 in death claims since its founding.

and unless it is corrected will be responsible for a real estate depression in many sections.

TRAINING IS NECESSARY
Many of the most successful contractors today have worked up from the ranks. They started in as carpenters, masons or in some other trade and by economy and hard work became boss contractors. These men have picked groups of employees and carry on successful and honorable business. A young man planning to enter the building industry today, however, should get a technical training, preferably either in engineering or architecture. He also should have a course in the fundamentals of business, purchasing commodities and general finance. The building industry is keenly competitive at this time and has a very large labor mobility which is destined to be increasingly difficult. The building industry is a very honorable and useful line of work for a young man to enter. It should interest the best young men because the best young men naturally want to do something constructive. To succeed in the building industry, industry one must be well trained, very industrious, be able to control subsistent capital and know how to inspire labor. Any young man who fails to have these four assets should take up some other line of work.

The finest kind of a building business to develop is one on a basis of cost plus a fixed amount for superintendence. I don't believe in the cost plus 10 per cent basis as then the contractor's profit increases with the amount he spends. Such a basis is wrong in principle and there is great opposition to extending it in any building. The "cost plus a fixed amount" however, is a sound basis.
Consumers probably get better jobs on such a basis provided the contractor is honest and attends to his business. Certainly, if I entered the building industry I would bid on no work, but slowly and gradually build up a business on the basis of cost plus a fixed amount. Young men desiring to endeavor to get employment with concerns working on this basis rather than those who simply bid against a lot of capitalists.

Contractors should not mix up contracting with investments. Some contractors, when business is dull, build buildings to keep their men in work.
This has usually been a mistake. The contracting business, that is, the erection of buildings, is an entirely different business from the sale of buildings. It is usually much better for a contractor to shut down than to go into the business of building houses for sale. Let the other fellow do this.

Moreover, my suggestion to those who build to sell is as follows: Continue your houses to small houses of six or seven rooms. Confine your apartments of two or three rooms with bath and kitchenette and don't build hotels unless they be with rooms and baths only, with one small reception room and a cafeteria in the basement which can be rented. These are not offhand suggestions, but are made after a careful study. Those who build to sell should carefully keep in mind the letter at the beginning of this interview, from the lady who says she wants only a garage with a bedroom and bath.

GENERAL BUSINESS
Probably no one of the great industries, with the exception of the railroad industry, is so intimately connected with the building business as building industry. People do not build because they need buildings, but because they have additional funds.
People build most when business is best and wages are high. Consequently, the most building takes place during the periods of prosperity. This building adds to the prosperity and makes the snow-ball bigger. Present easy money conditions are a greater factor in helping the building industry at the present time.
There is now a great surplus of investment funds in this country. This monetary situation should help to stimulate the building industry and prevent the decline being as severe as it otherwise would be. When prosperity falls off, or money becomes tight the people naturally stop building. The smallest amount of building takes place when commodity prices are lowest and building costs are at a minimum.

The building industry, however, is not only very dependent on prosperity, but prosperity is very dependent on the building industry. When a building is erected it helps all kinds of labor and every other of the nine great industries. The real estate man, the foundation people, the maker of all kinds of material, hardware dealers, furniture dealers, insurance agents and all groups of people are in some way benefited by building. Hence, ev-

With Spring, the annual crime wave comes: This gruesome notion galls and chafes. While buds are bursting into bloom The yeggs are bursting safes!

I felt a thrill as he came near me—a thrill of anticipation, and yet—I was afraid. He gathered me in his arms a trifle roughly and pressed me to him.

I struggled against him, but my efforts availed me nothing. Then—"SAY, you little brat," he roared. "Wadda y'mean pullin' my hair?" He laid me back in my cradle roughly.

Your farm won't grow big bumper crops unless you plant clean, healthy, vigorous seeds.

Considering your time and labor and your investment in land and farm machinery you can't afford to buy any but dependable seeds.

Rainbow field and corn seeds and seed corn are satisfactory because of their high uniform quality. We recommend them.
